FESTIVALS AND EVENTS

FEI can help public agencies to:

- Shape their cities and regions and raise their profile
- Assist in economic and social regeneration
- Create destination marketing strategies that generate cultural tourism
- Develop the quality of life of their citizens and enhance social inclusion

FEI works with existing festivals and events to:

- Develop and build their own capacity
- Increase success through project management or operational outsourcing
- Facilitate organisations and stakeholders in a process of peer assessment and organisational development.

FEI can help and support:

- Cultural festivals
- Outdoor events
- Sports events
- Public celebrations

REGENERATION AND TOURISM

The economic impact of major events is well recognised. Cultural and sporting events can drive economic regeneration by establishing attractive environments and cultural amenity, thereby attracting visitors and cultural tourists to an area. Event-led cultural tourism is becoming big business.

- Brighton Festival generates £20m a year
- Notting Hill Carnival brings in £93m from a three-day event
- Edinburgh's festivals generate £184m for the Scottish economy

FEI's directors have been at the heart of regeneration projects and event-led marketing in the UK for over 20 years, developing practical and sustainable approaches to these issues.

PROJECT PLANNING

Successful and sustainable festivals and events require careful planning. FEI can help articulate the vision and provide an objective and informed transition from concept to reality including:

- Market Analysis
- Feasibility Study
- Business Planning

The FEI team has experience of delivering projects at the very highest international level.

FUNDRAISING AND COMMERCIAL

Creating the right financial model within which the festival or event will operate is vital and striking a realistic balance between public and private investment is key to success. Festivals and events offer many other commercial opportunities including:

- Catering and merchandise concessions
- Intellectual property and rights
- Recording and broadcast

FEI's network includes some of the UK's most successful fundraisers and commercial managers. They are experts in creating bids for a specific event, private sector investment plans including sponsorship proposals and naming rights.

SALES, MARKETING & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT

Without effective sales and marketing, even the most exciting event will fail to reach its potential both in terms of earned income and profile for the festival and its location. Many Festivals and their stakeholders have ambitious social targets to attract new and non-traditional audiences of all age ranges.

FEI's directors have much hard-won experience in ticketing and sales partnerships, customer relationship management, marketing plans, media relations, arts education, community and outreach projects.

ORGANISATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

As well as the most compelling vision, tremendous public and private support and a fantastic audience, a festival or event must have a workable organisation without which it has little chance of success.

FEI's directors have set up and managed numerous organisations appropriate to the scale of the event and dealt with issues of governance and leadership structures. They have instigated numerous operating, fundraising, marketing, finance and IT systems.

EVENT PROGRAMMING AND DELIVERY

FEI's international experience is extensive, having produced and collaborated with some of the world's greatest festivals and events. It represents some of the most accomplished programmers and producers working today.

FEI's areas of expertise include commissioning of new work, coproduction and production development, project and tour management, technical production and event management.

FEI CONSULTING AND VENUE MANAGEMENT

As well as their festivals and events background FEI's directors have many years experience managing venues and arts organisations.

We specialise in the performing arts of music, dance and theatre with particular emphasis on organisational development, governance, financial analysis and evaluation. We are expert in the management of both permanent and temporary venues from capital project management through operating systems to programming.
